

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A server that includes a memory that stores data indicative of an actual delivery time of each of a plurality of commodities and a controller that receives data indicative of a desired delivery time and selects at least one of the plurality of commodities that 5 meets the desired delivery time on the basis of the actual delivery times of the plurality of the commodities stored in the memory and the received desired delivery time, and provides a result of the at least one selection made. The server enable consumers to easily learn delivery times of commodities in order to make more informed decisions.